St. Joseph's — A Modern

To one traveling on the highway, St. Joseph's would seem to be just another parochial school. Therefore we must "take a look" at what it really is. As the only Catholic secondary school in the community, St. Joseph's is truly a landmark. Its scientists, orators, and writers have gained many honors, thus establishing the school academically; and by winning the city baseball and basketball titles, its athletic teams have given evidence that the school is a power to be reckoned with.

St. Joseph's students have shown their character by active participation in the industries and activities of the community. The school has drawn students from neighboring cities as well as the immediate area. These students return to their homes to set an example as future leaders of the country.

Yes, one must take a good look to actually see the many intricacies of school life at St. Joseph's.

Friendly, gay, serious, religious, conducive to study — such is the atmosphere in which the St. Joseph's student lives his school day. With his every breath, he inhales these factors, thus providing himself with a diet of normal relations necessary for the effective growth of youth. The walls echo the attitude of the student body and are upheld with the mortar of school spirit. Each day finds a new acquaintance, whether in actual encounters or the vicarious meetings through literature and history. The student spends an active morning with the books, and when those books are squeezed into the locker, all thoughts are concentrated on the contents of the little brown paper bag and the rush for a seat in the cafeteria. The students, however, do not spend the entire day exchanging conversation among themselves. Relations with faculty members are a constant source of helpful, friendly advice for the inquisitive or doubtful student. Thus, the St. Joseph's students follow the road of formal and traditional procedures in their quest for knowledge.

St. Thomas Aquinas once said, "I learn more from my crucifix than from my books." What is true for the Church's greatest theologian is a lesson for us. Now we don't throw away our books and look at the crucifix all day for inspiration and knowledge! What was meant is that the search for truth begins with love of God and is guided by prayer.

The point isn't missed. St. Joseph's offers, besides formal religion classes, a rich treasure of spiritual advantages. Several priests are on the faculty, and spiritual directions can be had for the asking. The Brothers and Sisters have dedicated their lives to the ideal of religious education. Lay instructors also partake of that ideal.

The Blessed Sacrament is always present in the second-floor chapel. Holy Mass is offered there each day privately and there are public Masses each First Friday and during the annual retreats. True wisdom would serve to convince us of the huge debt of gratitude we owe God for such lavish spiritual gifts.

GESTURING INTENTLY, Pat Bauer delivers his version of a famous oration for Brother Gerard's speech class.

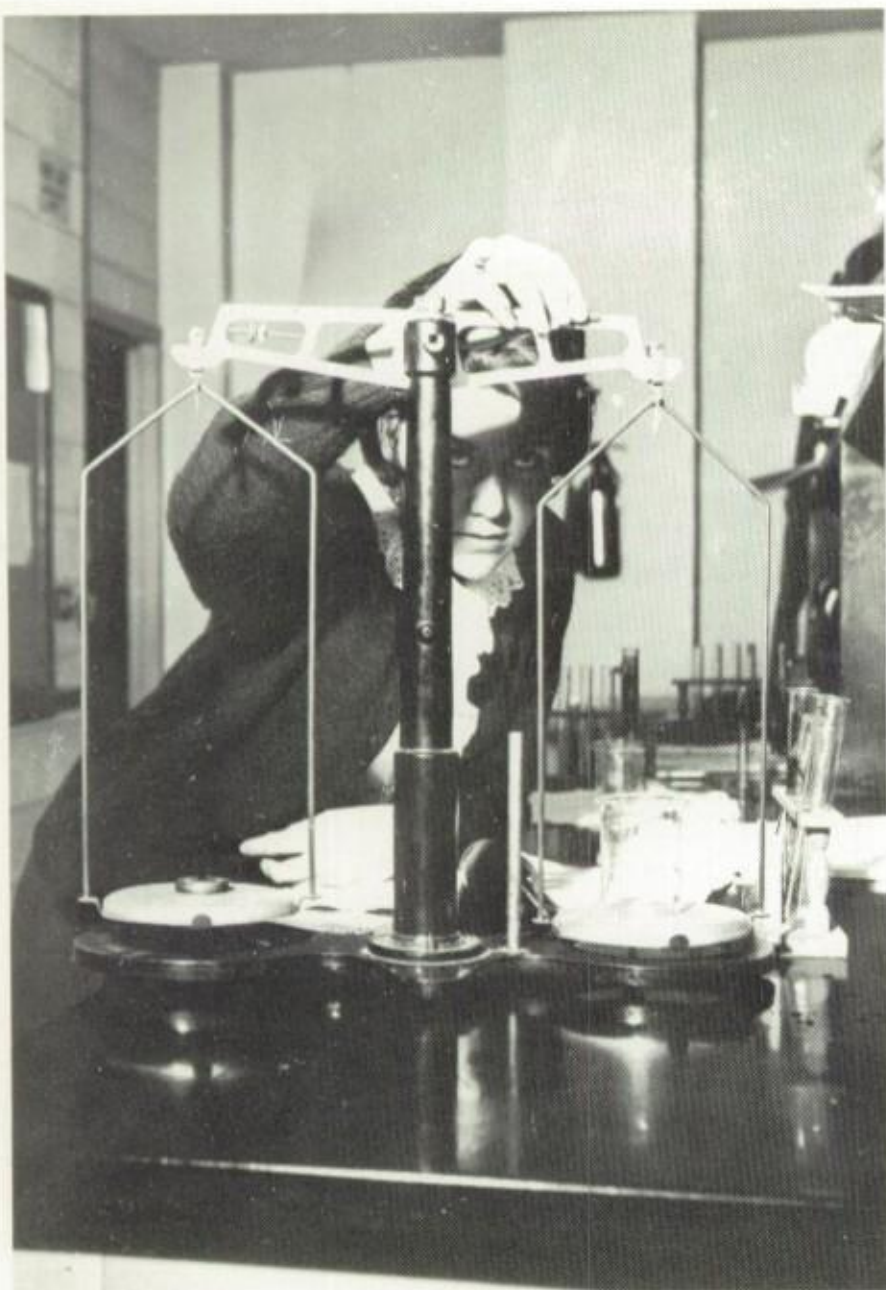

Teachers of English and foreign languages at St. Joseph's believe wisely that, "Learning a language is a serious business, but it need not be a solemn one." Our program stresses variety and includes four years of English, four of Latin, two each of Spanish and French.

For the years of English there are syllabi which stress a balance in methods of developing student ability to read, write, and speak more effectively. While superior and average students have ample opportunity to exploit their potential as readers, there are special aids offered the slow reader. Advanced writing courses for the more gifted and (or) the more ambitious student lead the way to mastery of the language. Learning to speak knowledgeably and with confidence in public goes on apace within each English class.

Much of what can be said about polishing our knowledge of English at St. Joseph's can be said about Latin and the modern languages, French and Spanish. With the latter two, the latest methods of instruction either have been or are being introduced. With tapes and records used almost exclusively, the approach is audio-oral, "listen and repeat." Thus, in the languages, St. Joseph's tries to keep strictly up to date in meeting the needs of its students.

TO ACQUIRE THE CORRECT MEANING and picturesque synonyms of words for the theme, Ben Marnocha makes use of dictionary and thesaurus.

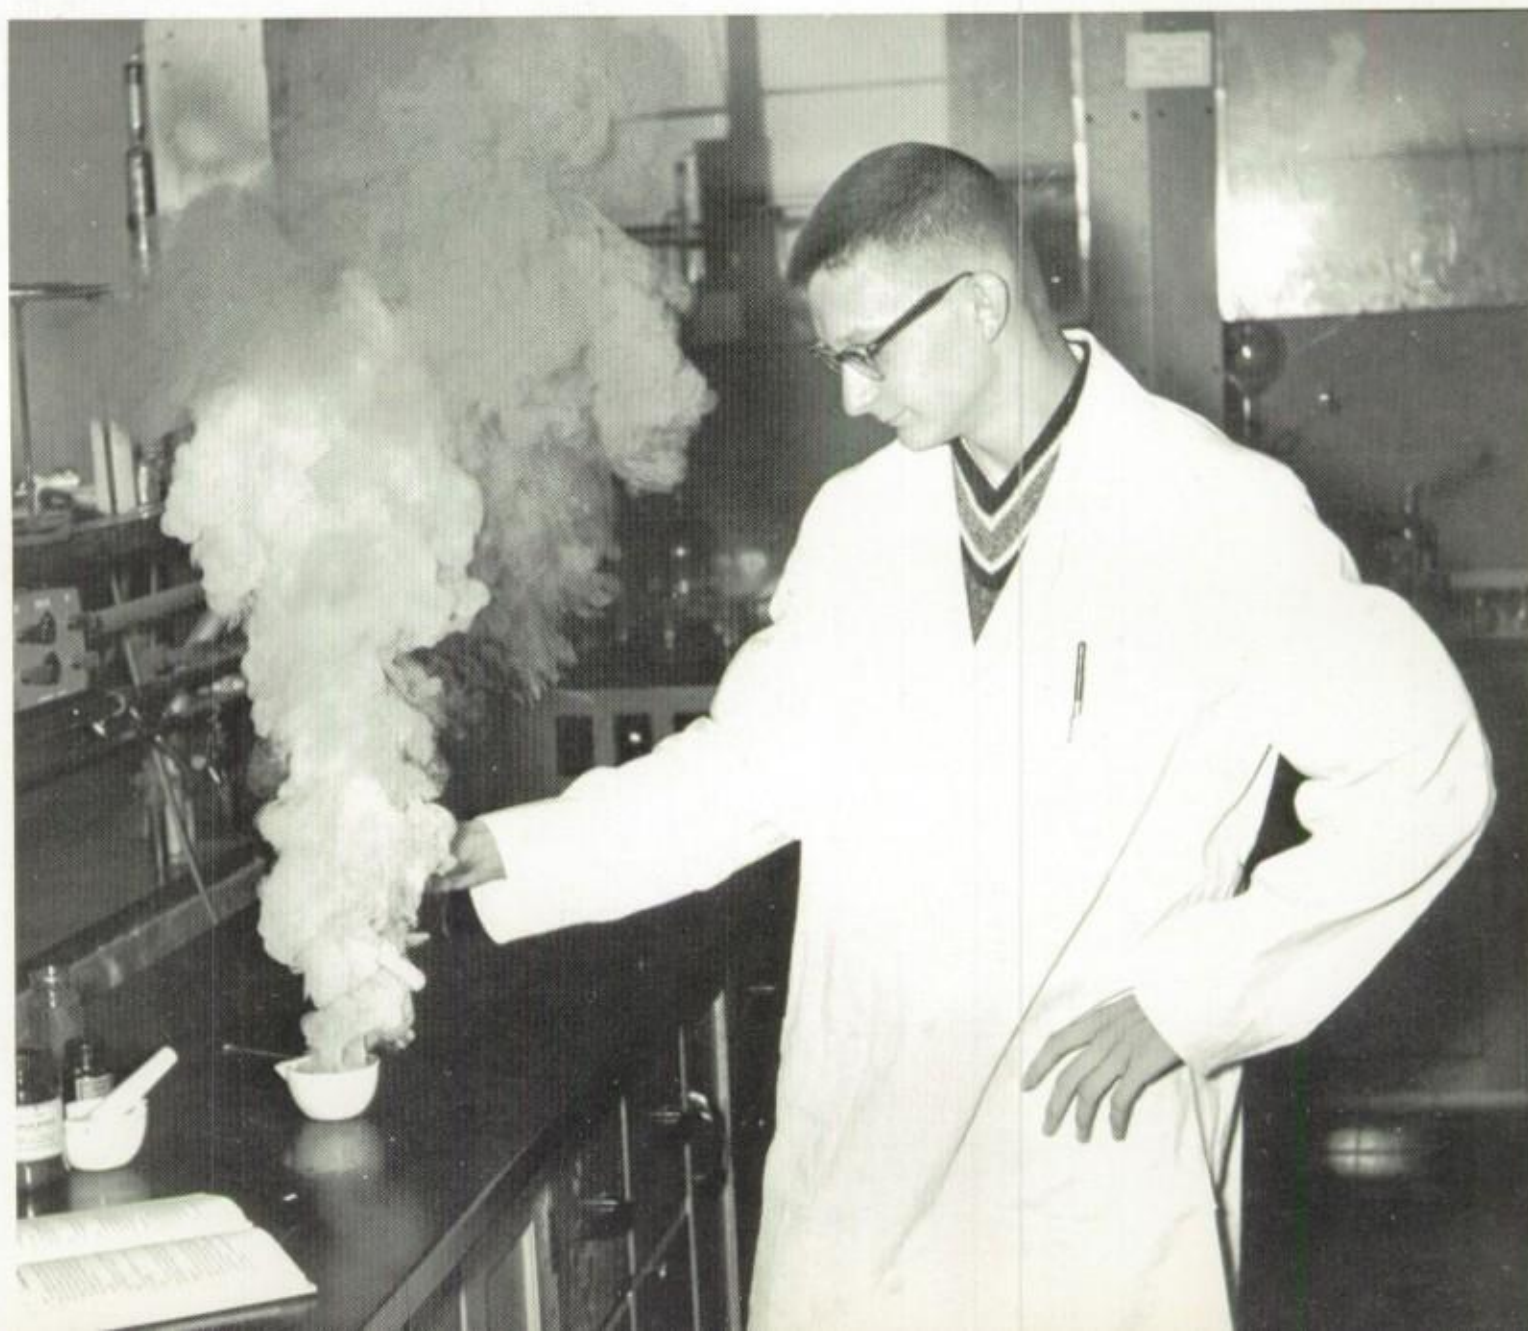

Emphasis on detail was the aim of the Science Department at St. Joseph's this year. In the past, the lack of equipment had handicapped our science program, particularly in the laboratory section. Although a common complaint of science teachers is the lack of opportunity to carry on a proper laboratory program because of the length of classes, equipment also plays an important part in this consideration. Due to an increase in demand for qualified scientists, however, we witnessed a rise in interest in the sciences here at St. Joseph's, and this rise necessitated an increase in laboratory work. In the boys' chemistry classes, more time was spent in the lab than ever before as students delved into the intricacies of analysis. The addition of 24 microscopes for the biology lab has made a great difference in the over-all pattern of this course. In like manner, the girls' biology classes have benefited from the use of a new micro-projector. The Physics Department continued to fascinate its students through the efforts of Brother Benedict Gervais, C.S.C., and his hand-fashioned equipment. Again, a summary of the science picture points to the word detail in the classroom and in the lab.

Retrospect is a natural and much overworked faculty. Yet, when we are able to take the successes and the failures of others, and couple them with our own initiative and ideals, the effort of looking back is worthwhile. This year in our world history, United States history, government, and civics courses, we have accomplished this.

From the earliest times until present day, history has been important to us. From it we learned how and why things happened. We also received expert opinions and new slants via air-borne television. History comes alive for us.

With our history courses as our foundation, we probed further with government and civics. Besides our textbooks, we had the advice of government officials and correspondence with foreign ambassadors. We learned our role as citizens.

Through United States and world history, we have learned how men and events of the past are responsible for the world as it is today. Through government and civics, we have learned how to accept the responsibility of molding the events of tomorrow.

We Work Toward Mastery

For the expression of one's ideas or the development of creative skills, the St. Joseph's student has a variety of courses and activities that provide training in the Fine Arts.

Expression through art can augment the pupil's imaginative and dextrous faculties. One could learn the fundamentals of painting by drawings made with pen and ink. Further progress in art was made through the use of oil crayons and creations of pastels and paper mosaics.

Musical enjoyment was attained through the symphonette. This year, for the first time, the orchestra was a curriculum of the school. Compositions by the composers of past and present were presented by the orchestra for listening pleasure.

A newly formed glee club under the direction of a new choirmaster made its debut this year. To add variety, the glee club subjoined their voices to the sounds of the band.

Fluency, confidence, and improved expression in speech and writing were procured by taking advantage of the various contests offered, such as those sponsored by the American Legion and the National Poetry Association.

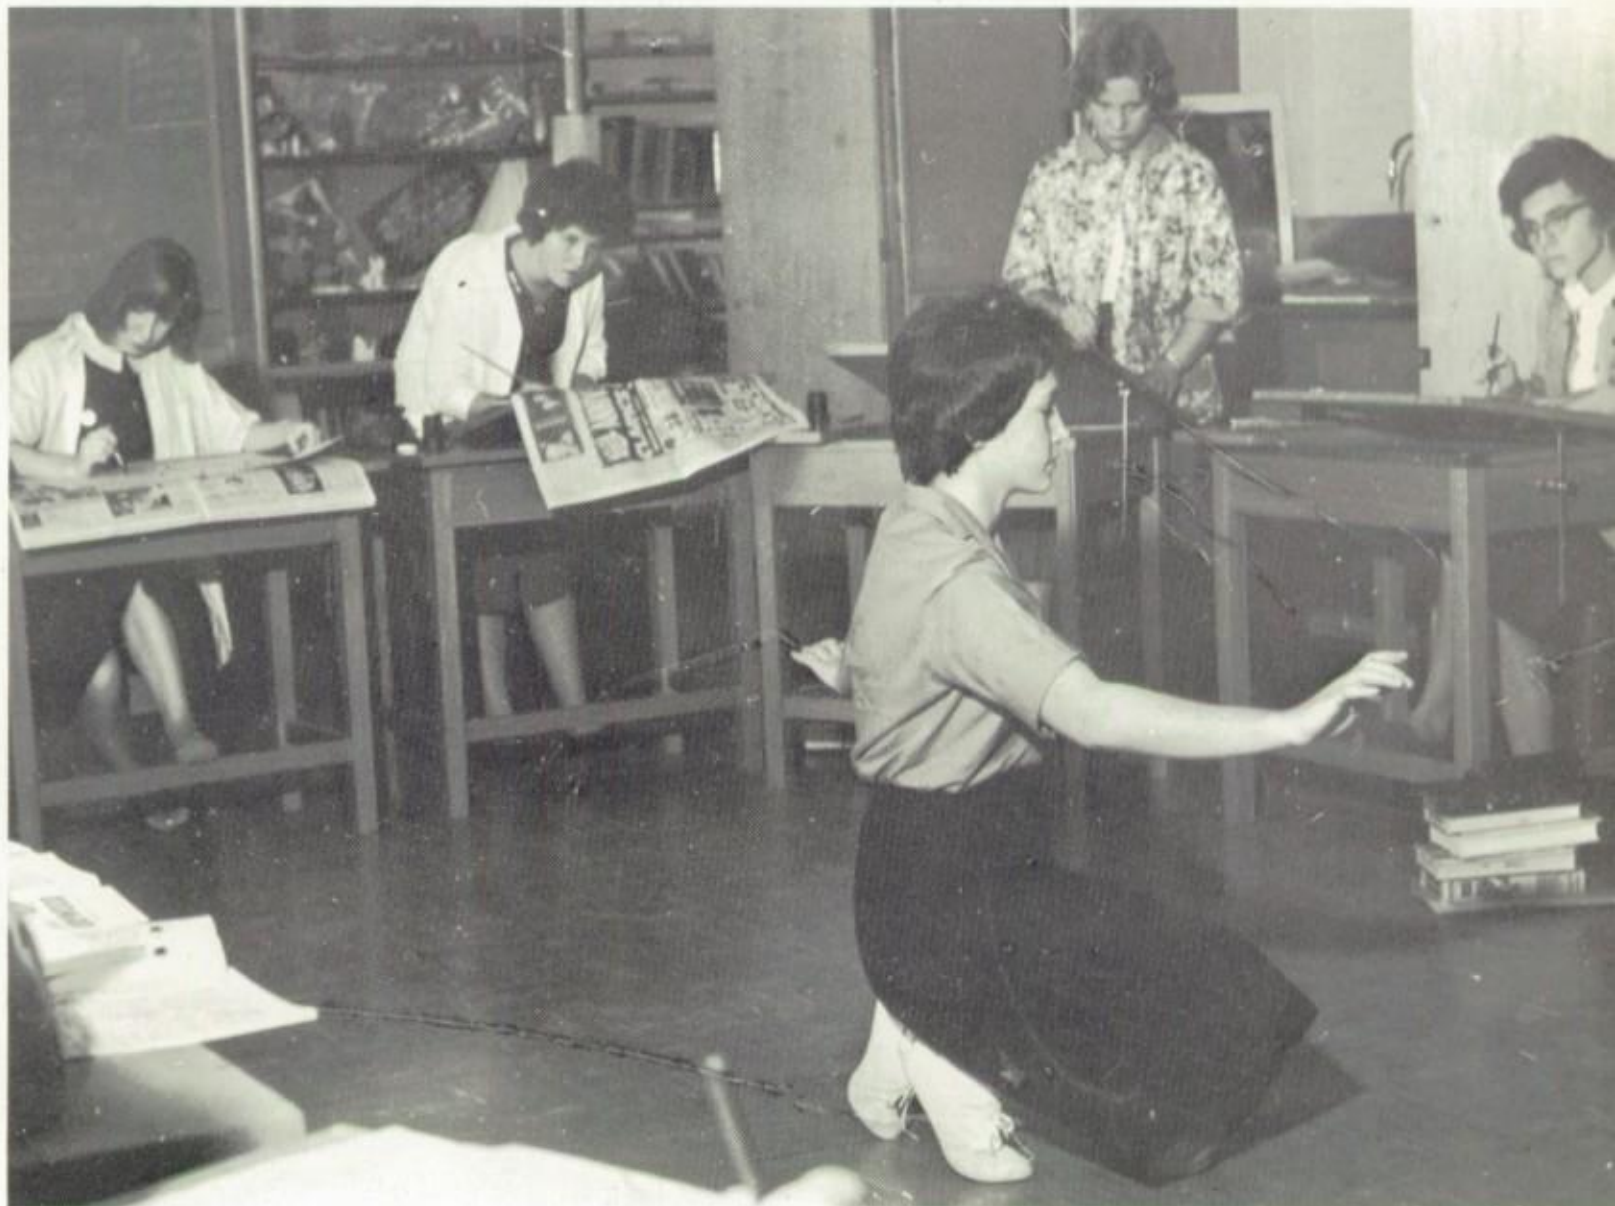

With this curriculum available, St. Joseph's students were provided with an outline for any of their cultural talents.

PROTECTED FROM FLYING CHIPS BY GOGGLES, Bill White roughs a project on the wood lathe in shop class.

A great number of high school students now engaged in the pursuit of knowledge will continue this process even more ardently in their years in college. For some students, however, the formal search for knowledge will end with the completion of high school. They will then be required to apply the things they have learned and make practical use of them. It is these students who profit from the Practical Arts program at St. Joseph's.

Courses in typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, and record keeping allow both boys and girls to gain valuable experience in business skills. They particularly prepare those who will go into business directly from high school so that they can fit smoothly into the pattern of their jobs. In addition, these courses give those heading for college skills that they inevitably find of great assistance in their studies.

The ultimate in practical knowledge is gained in the foods and sewing departments for girls and the shop and mechanical drawing classes for boys. Here, both learn the most basic skills which will make their future lives not only materially rewarding, but interesting and enjoyable. It is in this atmosphere that the true meaning of practical arts is brought forth and emphasized as a vital force in the foundation of adulthood.

We Explore Complexities of Math

History has it that the Egyptians were first to organize and develop mathematics, and it was all to help them re-locate property lines after they had been obliterated by annual Nile floods. Math's revered age and its fundamental importance makes it deservedly the "Queen of the Sciences." Putting first things first, scientifically speaking, St. Joseph's Math Department gears itself to the student, giving him as many numbers, figures, and symbols as he can absorb. Especially talented students take advanced, college-preparatory courses.

From registration until graduation, St. Joseph's students are exposed to mathematical symbols that grow in complexity like an inverted pyramid. First there's algebra and the student's way is equated through polynomials and functions. The relationship of lines becomes familiar in geometry and allied subjects. Trigonometry and analytics bring more work involving triangles and solids. With this background, the St. Joseph's student can apply his knowledge of pure mathematics to everyday problems.

We Award Academic Excellence

At the end of each year, to give recognition to those students who distinguished themselves in their class work, activities, or leadership, an Awards Night is held.

Last year, assembled before parents, teachers, and friends, the students received many awards. Medals were given to students who achieved excellence in religion, languages, and industrial arts. Gift certificates from a local bookstore were given to the students receiving religion awards. Scholastic Honor Certificates, scholarships, awards from societies and other organizations, and for citizenship and attendance were also presented.

Donna McLain and John Meuleman were valedictorians. Genevieve Baker and Tom Connaughton, the salutatorians, addressed the assembly. They praised the work of all the students and encouraged them to carry on this good work through all their lives.

As a final token to the school, the senior class president turned over the traditional tomahawk to the president of the junior class.

ACTIVITIES

At St. Joseph's the activities register is open, awaiting only the signature of would-be achievers. In our school there are thirty-six extra-curricular activities, range enough for the most discriminating chooser. Just name an interest and there is sure to be a complementing club or organization to feed that interest.

Guiding the band with a steady, sure hand through its many and varied performances this year was our new director, Mr. James Reith. The band showed a continuance of progress and the development of varying musical abilities.

The band as a marching unit made its debut at the televised homecoming game with Fort Wayne Central Catholic. Swinging from the march tempo into more demanding concert work, preparation began for the Pop Concert, held on November 26. With the Theme "Cafe Rio," the program was composed entirely of Latin American rhythms. On December 17, the band ushered in the Christmas spirit with the annual Christmas Concert presented to the Patrons Club and student body at separate assemblies.

Stealing time between concert engagements, the band worked on march songs to be presented at the home basketball games. The "sound of music" added to the thrills of the sport and gave the spectators a spot of entertainment at the pre-game and halftime intervals.

The annual Spring Concert was held on March 21, and many hours of rehearsal went into its presentation. A month later the band played three of its favorite, yet challenging, arrangements at the State Band Contest. Representing Saint Joseph's High School, the varsity band marched in the parades commemorating Armed Forces Day and Memorial Day. Terminating their year's activities, band members played for graduation exercises on June 3.

A great deal of time, talent, and hard work added up to a successful year for St. Joseph's Glee Club. Under Mrs. Marie Hardy's capable direction, the group practiced at least once a week with separate sessions for the boys and girls. This time certainly proved to be of great value.

Glee Club activities were many and varied throughout the year. Joining with the band, a series of performances of the Christmas program were presented for the Patrons Club and then, for the student body. The Glee Club also participated in a city-wide high school musical televised by one of the local stations. Later, combining talent and showmanship, the Glee Club provided the entertainment at a party given for the children of migrant Mexican workers. This was certainly one time when the performers were as gratified as were the listeners.

In the spring, using an Easter theme, a concert of religious and secular songs was presented.

Through all of these activities the Glee Club has effectively developed the talent of its members and added immeasurably to the reputation of the school.

Highlighting the 1961-62 school year was the introduction of the Drama Study Club, moderated by Miss Sally Rosenheimer. At its meetings, the club discussed and read material connected with the theater; thus, the study of modern actresses, actors, and dramatics not only added to the members' enjoyment, but also to their acting ability.

Expressing themselves, club members presented a one act play, "Sunday Costs Five Pesos," at Christmas, and a three act play, "Our Town," during the spring. While gaining theatrical experience, club members got a clear outlook on the use of costumes, make-up, props, and production management.

Posters in the hallways supplied the St. Joseph's student with information for the coming weeks. Responsible for much of this service to school activities was the Art Club.

With Miss Susan Eyerly guiding the club on its artistic ways, the Art Club provided organized activities in which members expressed their emotions. In addition to sketching and painting, future artists studied slides of masterpieces and the lesser works, and received technical advice from guest speakers. Through these aids, art club members learned of their hobby or vocation and its relationship to the world around them.

Guided Self-Instruction

In the past years, science and mathematics have come to be an important part of our everyday lives. With the space explorations and the new discoveries in the sciences, man has undergone a marked change. In his daily life, he is always seeking new ways for a better living by means of knowledge and experimentation. That is why, this year, St. Joseph's again made available its Science and Math Clubs to the possible future scientists and mathematicians of the world.

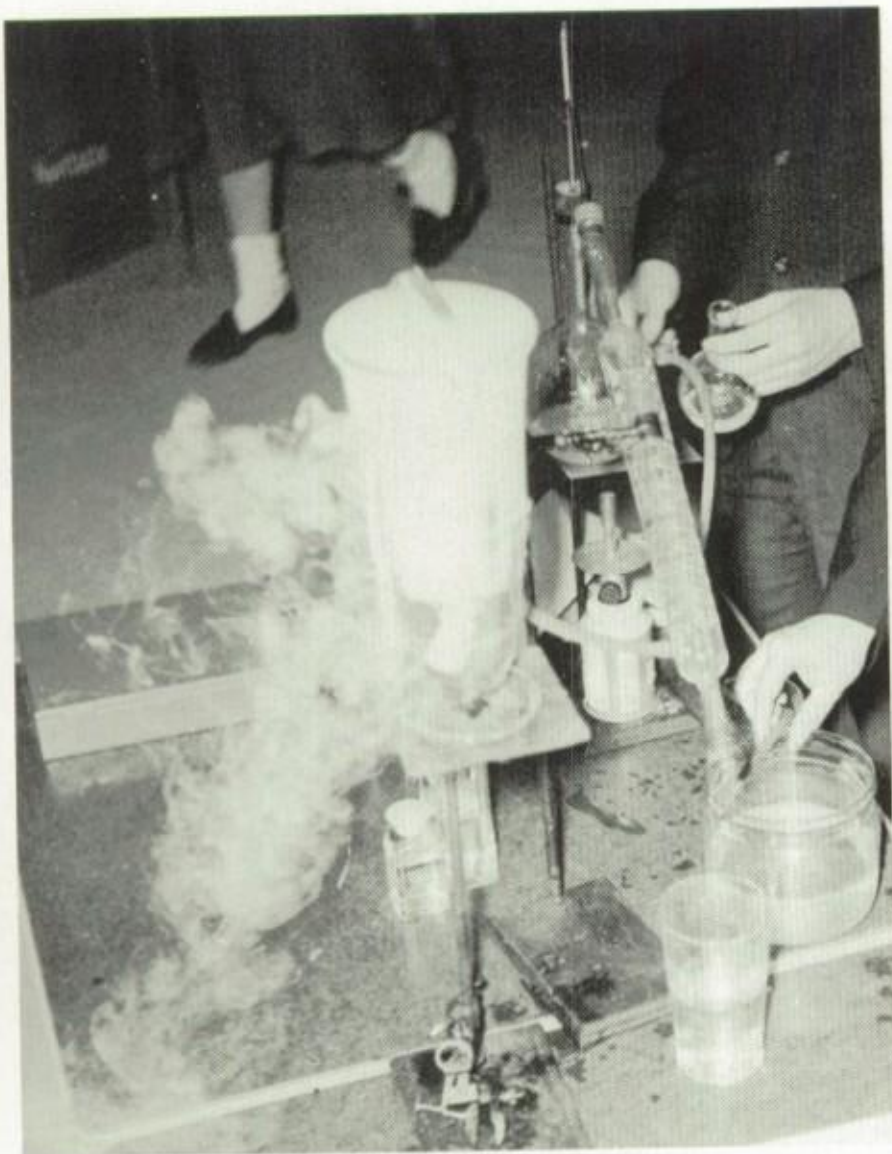

The Science Clubs, under the direction of Mrs. Carol Summers and Mr. David Malone, delved into the questions of the individual members. By experimenting, participating in field trips, and inviting people well versed in a specific scientific field to speak to them, the future scientists were able to gain more knowledge in the art of science. In particular, the boys' club also explored the realm of qualitative analysis.

This year the girls' Math Club was moderated by Sister M. Rose Veronica, C.S.C. The members studied the set theory which aided them in preparing for the future math courses.

Through the work of the Science and Math Clubs, the members were able to gain a more complete understanding of their specific field. Thus, in their high school years, avid students were given an opportunity to decide in the scientific or mathematical field was to be their avocation in future life.

The Science Fair —

High school science fairs are a spring rage. It all began not more than ten years ago in the mind of some enterprising instructor, and has spread widely so that now a science fair is planned on the school calendar. March 4, 1961 marked the second time that St. Joseph's had a fair, with the number of students participating and the importance of the research projects involved sizeable.

The science fair represented divisions of endeavor in physics, chemistry, biology, and the domestic sciences. Topics for research were suggested by the instructor in a particular class or ferreted out by a student while delving through books seeking a lead. At any rate, preliminary work was done, the field opened up, and under the instructor's lead, the project often branched off into an interesting area whose exploration was not originally intended.

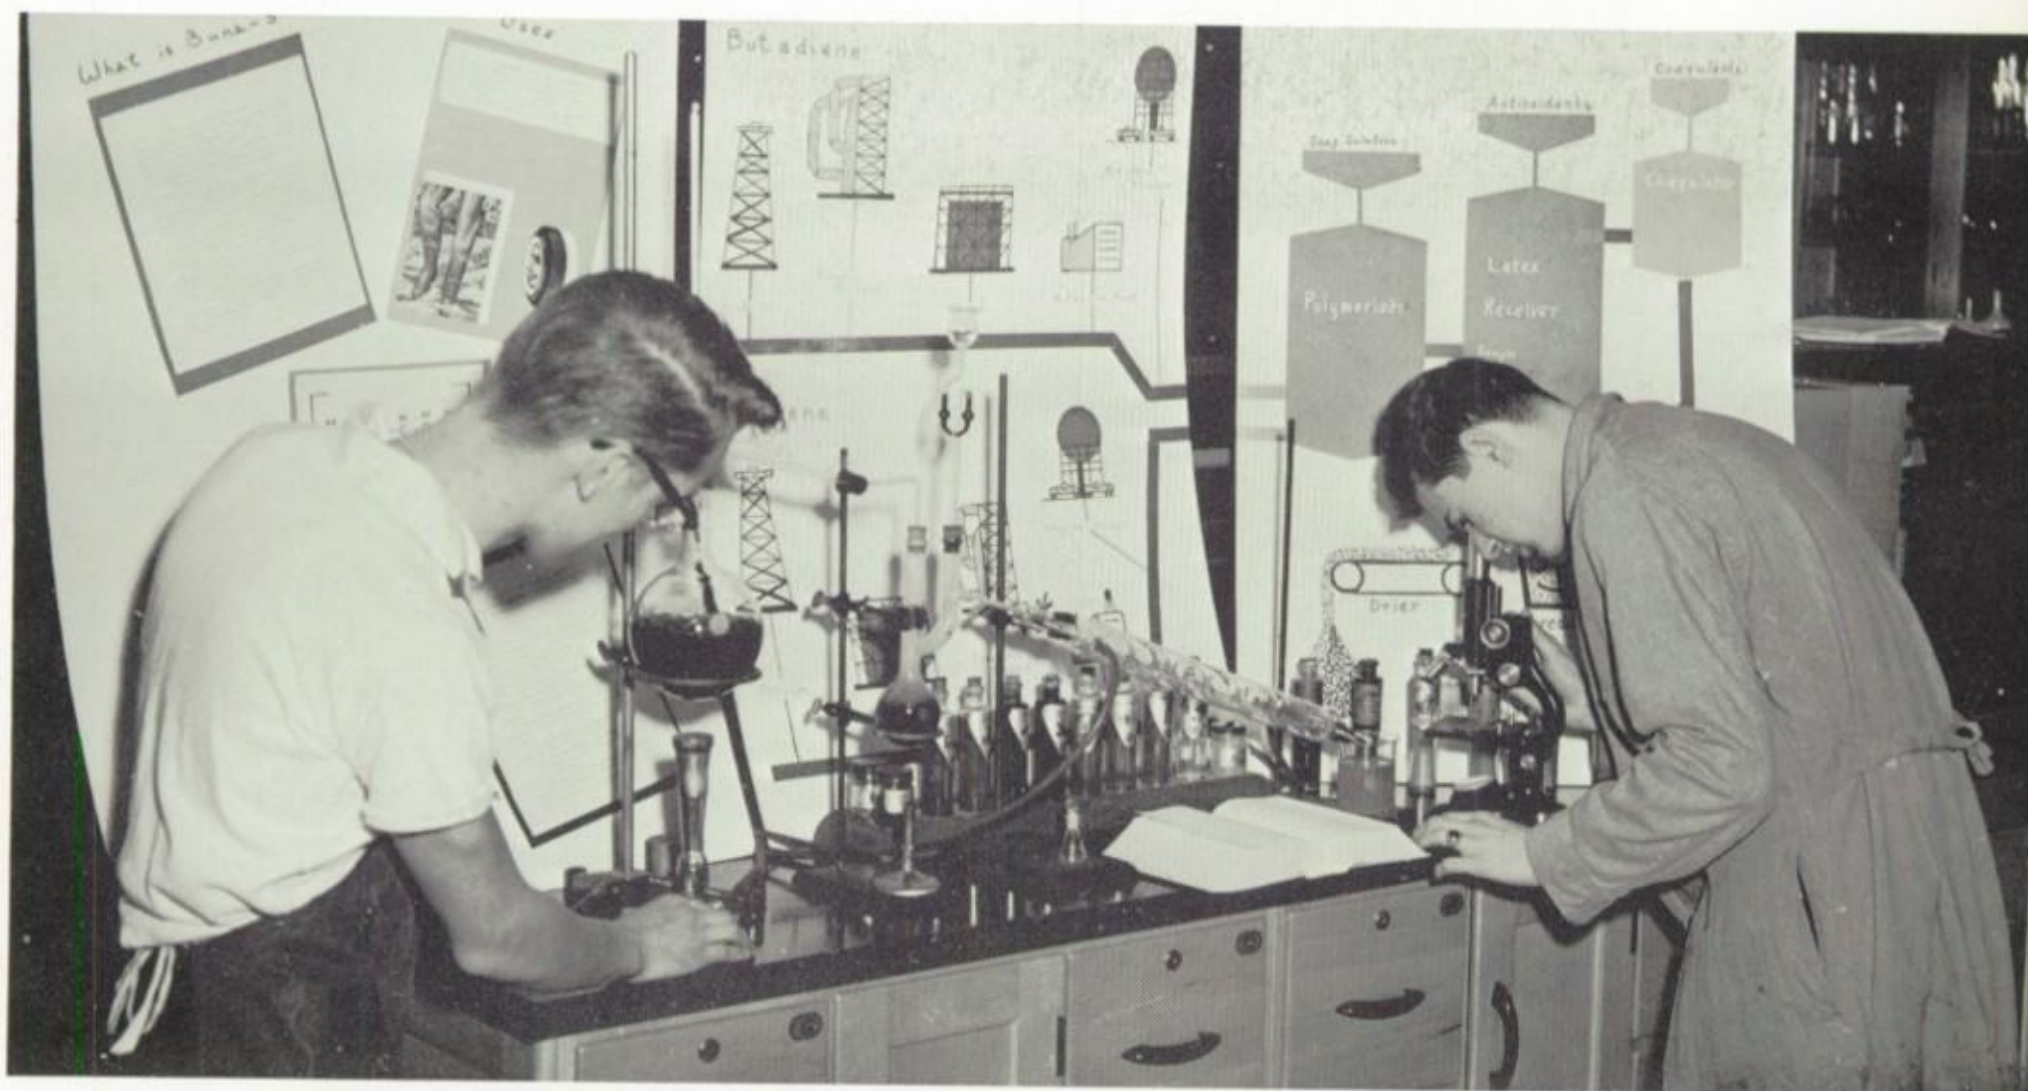

When visitors came, the atmosphere was highly social. Students turned teachers and had the keen satisfaction of being able to lecture their elders on an area in which they were masters. The student could speak authoritatively because he had grasped a cardinal point of acquiring knowledge: "All learning is self learning."

THE AWARD WINNING COMPUTER is the object of builder Larry Stauder's comments and George Lysak's curiosity.

UNDERSTANDING Bill Hambidge's science fair project requires a bit more than vocal explanation.

The Needs of Others

PERSEVERANCE SUCCEEDS in bringing a triumphant smile to the face of Linda Swiental as she begins turning an old sheet into bandages.

The foreign missions have more than sufficient reason to be indebted to the Mission Clubs here at St. Joseph's. In the past, club members have been responsible for sending substantial amounts of financial and material aid to the indigent people of Africa and Pakistan.

Expanding its program this year, the Boys' Mission Club, with the aid of Brother Gerald Mason, C.S.C., carried on direct communication with African students. This form of "social" aid was very timely as it was in keeping with the present foreign policy of President Kennedy.

November 26 marked the date of the Mission Club's annual "Pop Concert." Designed to provide an evening of entertainment for the folks at home and financial aid for the people overseas, the club, in co-operation with the school band, presented "Cafe Rio," a program of Latin-American music.

Meeting in their spare time under the supervision of Sister M. Nazareth, C.S.C., the girls' group collected, packed, and shipped foodstuffs and clothing to the missions in Pakistan. The often dreary and hungry Christmas season in mission lands was brightened upon the arrival of these packages.

The annual "Pop Concert," club discussions, letter exchange and package aid programs, as well as the familiar weekly collections in the homerooms, are all tribute to the animated spirit of charity that pervades these organizations.

For the girl interested in the nursing profession, the Future Nurses Club provided a look at professional possibilities and a touch of practical experience. With moderator Mrs. Ruby Kubista supervising, club members weighed and learned the rewards of nursing profession.

At the monthly meetings of the club, guest speakers, including doctors and nurses, talked to the girls on their prospective profession. The members also rendered their services as "Candy Strippers," so named because of their pink and white striped uniforms. Each member spent two hours a week-end feeding and cheering the patients at St. Joseph's Hospital. Through active participation in this or any other welfare work, the girls gained first-hand experience and merited the Future Nurses Pin.

Future Teachers Examine Profession

The Future Teachers Club, under the guidance of Sister M. In the past, the Future Teachers have offered their services during the Teachers Institute and the eighth grade registrations. This year new activities were planned, including a trip to the Fall Workshop of the northwestern area of the Indiana Future Teachers Association in Rolling Prairie, and a special College Day set aside for guests from various Catholic colleges in the United States to talk to all the girls about college education. At the bi-monthly meetings, guest speakers were invited to comment on the preparations and responsibilities of the teaching profession.

The publication of another All-American annual to match and surpass those of previous years; but, moreover, the complete record of the students and activities of the 1961-62 school year was the monumental task that the editors and staff of the HI-WAY were confronted with.

The foundation for the book was laid last summer. Three of the staff members attended the High School Journalism Institute at Indiana University and learned the basics of layout, copy writing and editing, and photography. When the actual work began, the hours grew longer and more tedious. The deadlines, too closely spaced for comfort, required a great deal of overtime. Confusion reigned at most of these work sessions, but the result was the product of good organization. The new moderator, Brother Anton Mattingly, C.S.C., lent a forceful hand to the production of the book. An additional photographer from the Girls' Department provided an increased number of pictures and invaluable information.

This noble project, re-capturing the high spots of the year's activities clearly and concisely, was an outlet for the students' journalistic talents. It also required solid character, and everyone connected with it began to develop a keen sense of responsibility. After the final proofs were sent back to the factory, all were relieved and awaited the results of their strenuous efforts.

"THAT'S THE ANGLE EXACTLY; hold it right there," says Brother Anton, HI-WAY moderator, as he lines up a photo.

ST. JOE'S TRIBUNE REPORTERS Pat Berta and Pat Bauer prepare copy for the paper's Sunday High School section.

Newspapers Benefit Both

The purpose of any newspaper is to relate the news. Our school paper, the Hi-Lite, is no exception. Athletic events, scholastic achievements, social gatherings, and club meetings were covered. Yet, a good newspaper must contain more than straight news coverage. The members of the journalism class compiled student opinion polls, and provided the paper with features, editorials, and pieces of creative writing.

Every edition was a composite of three weeks of hard, and often tedious work. The twenty reporters and ten executives, under the direction of Miss Mary Ann Cooke and Miss Susan Eyerly, spent hours, both during and after school, discovering and reporting stories, typing, copy-reading, writing headlines and captions, working on page layouts, and rushing to meet the printer's deadline. At times, the staff was even required to go out and sell ads for the paper.

The fact that the 1960-61 Hi-Lite received a "first class" rating from the Catholic Press Association was an added incentive. Editor and staff members alike were determined to keep the Hi-Lite in its top position.

National Honor Society

"... the highest honor St. Joseph's High School is able to confer upon one of its students . . ." Words to this effect were intoned by our Superintendent, Father John Vrabely, in describing the significance of acceptance into a respective chapter of the National Honor Society.

In both departments this year, the student body heard four previously inducted members of the society speak about the qualities required to enter the society. These are: character, scholarship, leadership, and service. A combination of all four is necessary for acceptance, without exception.

Membership is not just an honor, a momentary elevation. Time and dedicated effort, particularly in the tutoring service offered by the society, is required. In addition, members maintain concessions at dances and arrange for scholarships for deserving students. There is a service, however, not quite as obvious as these, which consists of the example these select students set for others. They exemplify the fullness of balanced development at St. Joseph's and serve as an inspiration to the befuddled freshman, as well as to the poised and confident senior.

In all organizations there must be a group placed on a level above the average. These must be recognized by higher authority, and their special successes promulgated so that others may be inspired to imitate them. At St. Joseph's this group is the National Honor Society.

WITH APPROPRIATELY SERIOUS MIEN, John Lentz lights the Torch of Service.

Senates Instill Spirit of Striving to improve student-faculty relations, the student senates of St. Joseph's benefited the school, the teachers, the students, and others.

The Girls' Senate, under the direction of Sister M. Frances Borgia, C.S.C., brought several innovations to the school. Senate funds were used to purchase an American flag for each homeroom. Another "first" was the one year scholarship given to a girl from a local parish grade school. To help furnish the kitchen of the newly-built convent, the girls collected trading stamps. Traditional services and activities were also carried out. During the Christmas season the Senate sponsored a food drive and a decorating contest for the homeroom bulletin boards. The girls sold basketball programs at each home game, and hats during the tournament. "Dress Up Day," "Cotton Day," and "Thank You Day" rounded out the school year.

Brother Charles Blavat, C.S.C., sponsor of the Boys' Senate, directed its various activities. The Christmas collection of food and toys for the less fortunate was one of the annual service projects. Another traditional project was the publication of the Student Directory. The Senate also sponsored a sport dance.

With these activities the homeroom representatives, class presidents, and the senate sponsors have given a spirit of unity and co-operation to the school.

MARDI GRAS 1962

The annual semi-formal dance, the Mardi Gras, was held on March 2, 1962 in the school gymnasium. As usual, the decorations were executed in a New Orleans carnival theme. The gym simulated a street in the French Quarter, complete with sidewalk cafes, highlighted by a canopied carousel on the stage. The cafeteria was in the form of a wharf with a miniature costumed doll set on each table.

Bobbie Wear and his band were chosen by the class sponsors, Sister Andrew and Brother Viator, along with the general chairmen for the dance, Donna Botka and Tim Hartzler.

A unique innovation was introduced by the Senior Class when a Senior king was selected, in addition to the queen and her court.

The flurry of activities before the dance and right up to the final day was rewarded by an evening which ended, as always, far too soon. Before some of the Seniors knew it, they were standing in a cold, empty gym, too tired to move and too pleased to forget.

Thus, combining the old and the new, "Mardi Gras, '62" proved to be as enjoyable this year as it has been in the past and will be in the future.

With king and queen of the Senior Ball, Larry Van Overberghe and Loni Sabo, reigning over the city of Venice from a cloud-covered stage, various shades of lavender and blue carried out the theme "A Holiday in Venice." Seniors and their dates danced to the music of Johnny Nowlan under the twinkling stars of a clouded night. Pillars draped with pink tapestry and murals of Venetian streets added to the effect of a grand ballroom.

"Echoes of the Orient" filled the atmosphere the night of the Junior Prom. Greeted by Chinese servants, the juniors and their dates walked into a garden filled with exotic beauty. Shades of gold and black helped to supply the impression of an Oriental teahouse, while a view of Mount Fujiyama covered the stage where King and Queen Bob Samora and Mary Clancy ruled. Chinese figurines, silhouetted against the walls, added to the enchantment as the couples danced to the music of Eddie Knight. Bamboo curtains and lanterns continued to carry the theme in the cafeteria.

Socialites Frolick At Numerous

MASTER OF CEREMONIES John Kuminecz presents record awards at the "Mad Hatter" to Judy Straka and Duane Tihen.

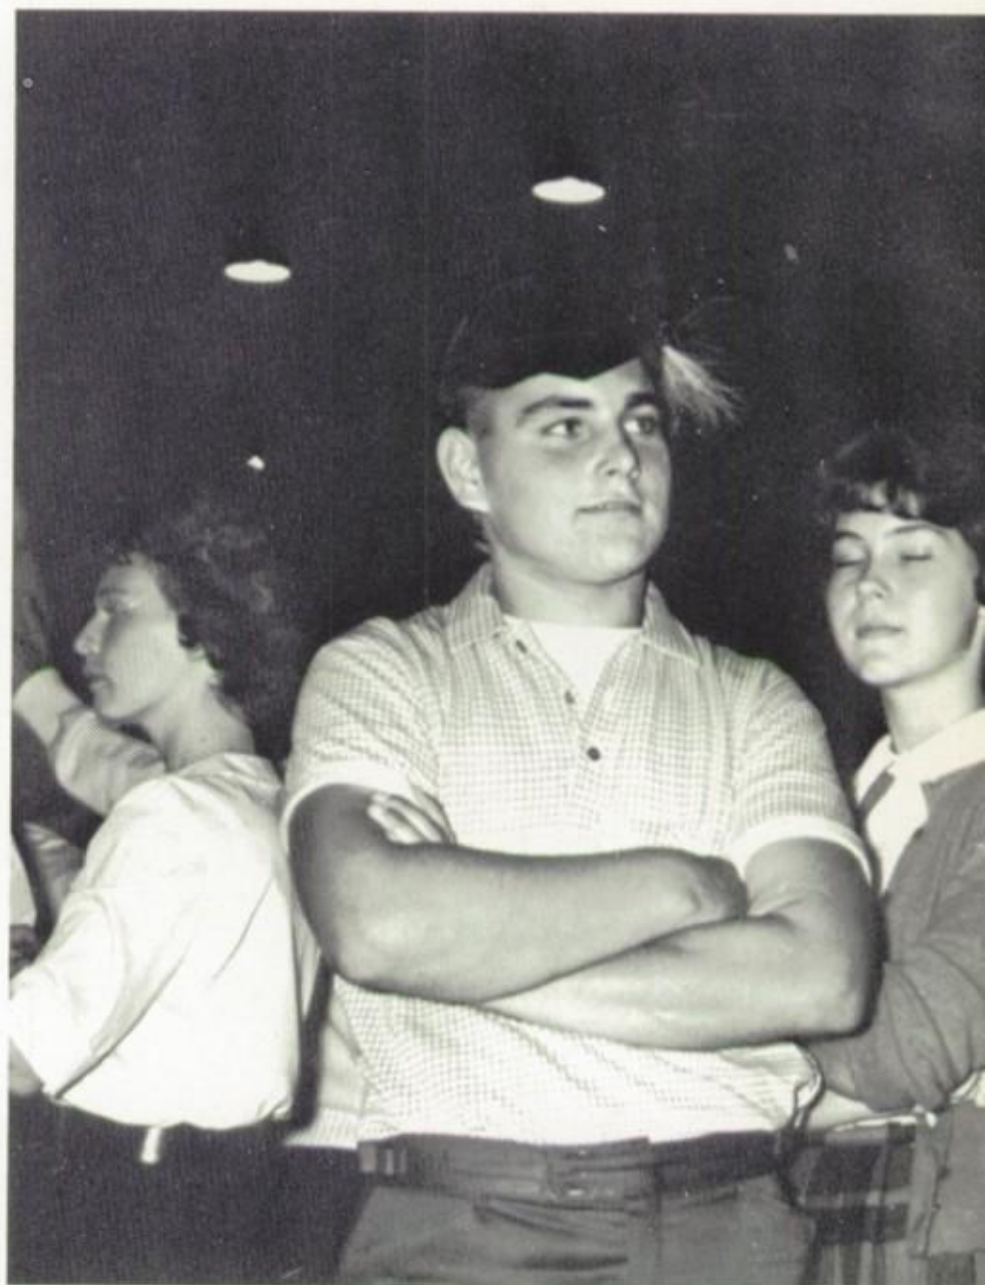

Believing that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," St. Joseph's interspersed its social calendar with frequent informal dances. Students frolicked to the melodies of local bands, making new acquaintances and taking the edge off routine.

Setting things socially awirl, the seniors staged a clever innovation with their "Mad Hatter" Dance. The Juniors followed with a football farewell dubbed "Touch-down 23." In addition to these major efforts, numerous class Coke parties — delightful mixtures of music and friendship — sparked the social agenda.

Something new at St. Joseph's was an inter-class mixer for sophomores and freshmen. Sponsored by the sophomores, this mixer was an introduction for the frosh into the school's social life. To break class barriers was the goal of this dance — and this it did. The mixer provided an instantaneous acceptance of the "greenies" into St. Joseph's at the start of their four year stay.

All of these dances, of course, served to weld class unity and to stimulate participation in student activities. In addition, the fun and enjoyment had at these affairs will be long talked about.

A vital part of the active school is its interest in the physical development of its students. "Develop the whole man," they say. A well-tuned, healthy body complements a sound mind. St. Joseph's athletic program runs the gamut from intramurals to inter-scholastic competition. It reaches every student.

Indians Accelerate to Victory

The St. Joe Football team of 1961 was a team of downs and ups. Two opening losses were followed by two disheartening ties. The Riley game put the team on the winning trail, and the Indians did not deviate from it for the rest of the season as they scored six consecutive victories.

In the first game of the season, the Central Bears overcame a seemingly unsurpassable 13-0 first-half St. Joe lead and went on to three second-half touchdowns and a 20-13 victory. All the Bear touchdowns were scored on long runs as the Indians could not cope with Central's blazing speed.

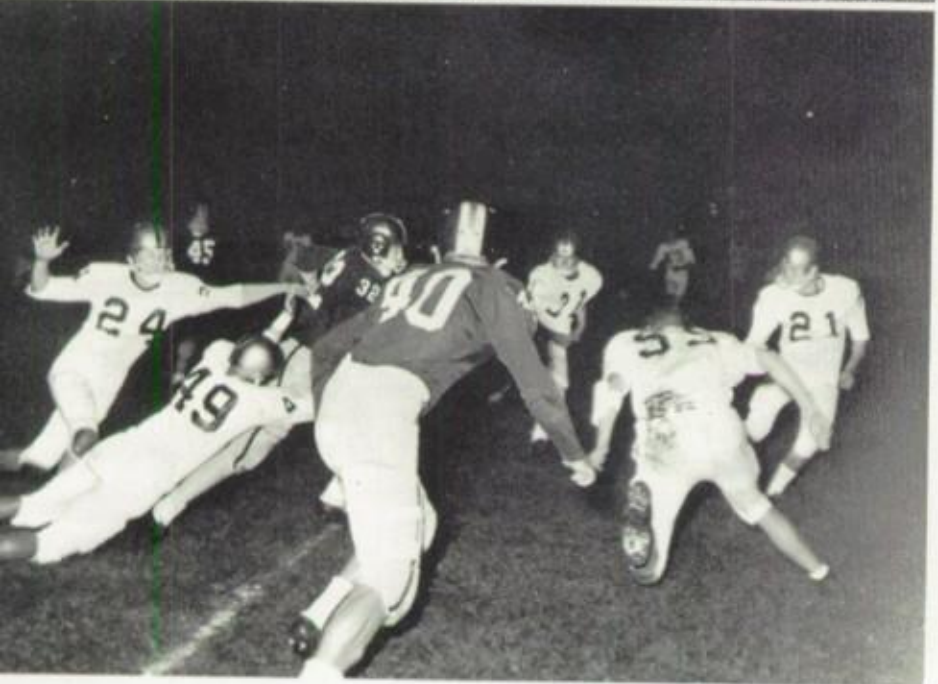

The Washington game followed much the same pattern as the Central game. The Indians drew first blood but held their 6-0 lead only a few moments. Ashley Carothers returned the ensuing kickoff 80 yards and the Panthers soon held a 7-6 lead, a lead which they never relinquished. Scoring another touchdown in the second half, Washington went on to win 13-6.

Bishop Luers struggled with the Tribesmen to a 0-0 tie. Except for two deep thrusts by the Knights, the game was played between the 30-yard lines.

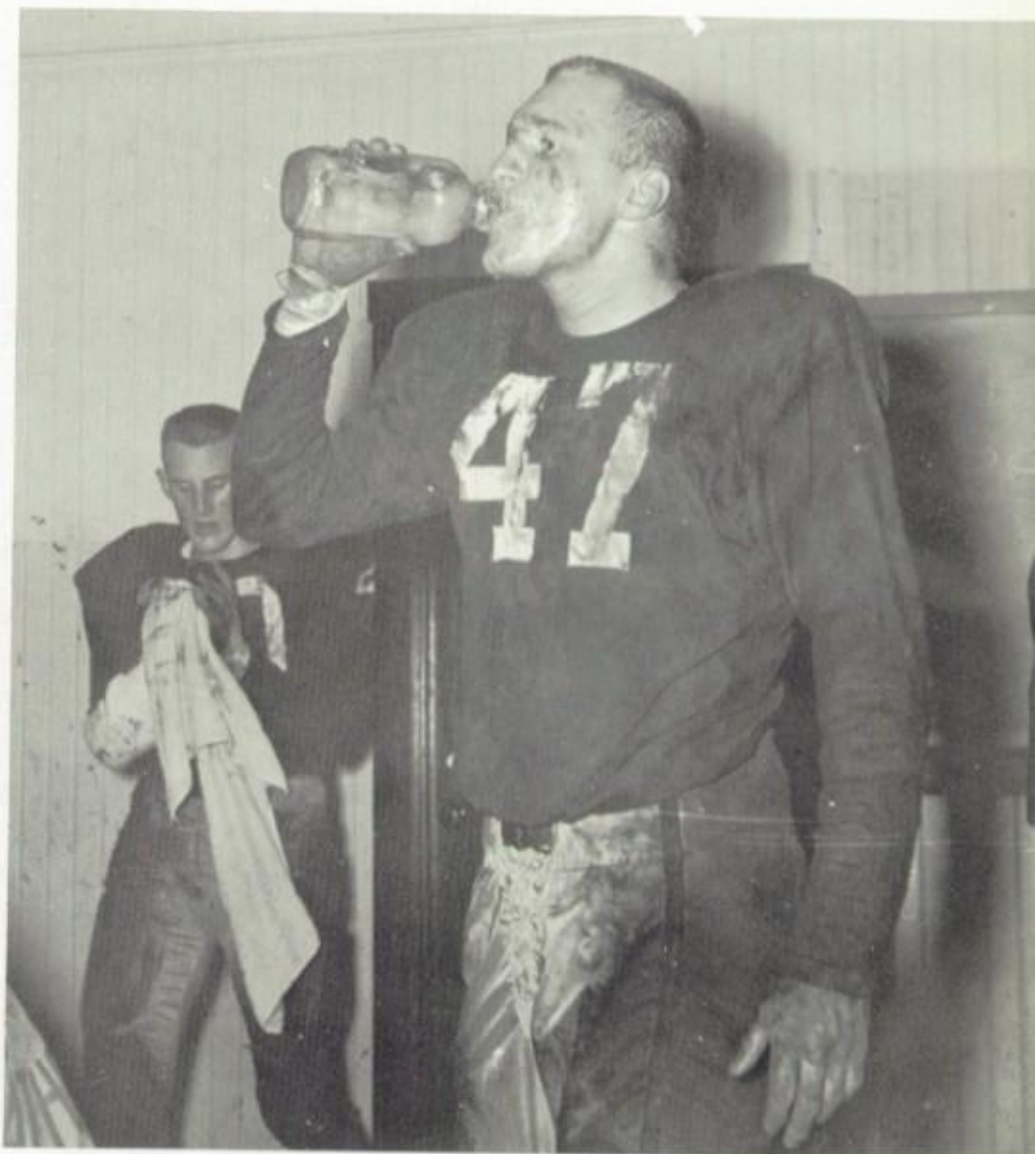

The Ft. Wayne C.C. game brought the second annual Homecoming. In this game the Indians fought from behind with a fourth period touchdown to chalk up its second tie in a row, 7-7.

The Saints scored their first victory of the season over a spirited Riley eleven. The Indians were first on the scoreboard when Riley's Tom Gleason was trapped in the end zone. A late fourth quarter touchdown brought St. Joe from behind to win by the score of 9-6.

Next, the Indians came up against a highly-touted Gary Roosevelt team. From the beginning, St. Joe dominated the contest and went on to surprise the Panthers and win by an impressive 20-7 score.

With two straight wins under their belts, the Saints continued their winning ways with a 14-7 victory over Hammond Noll.

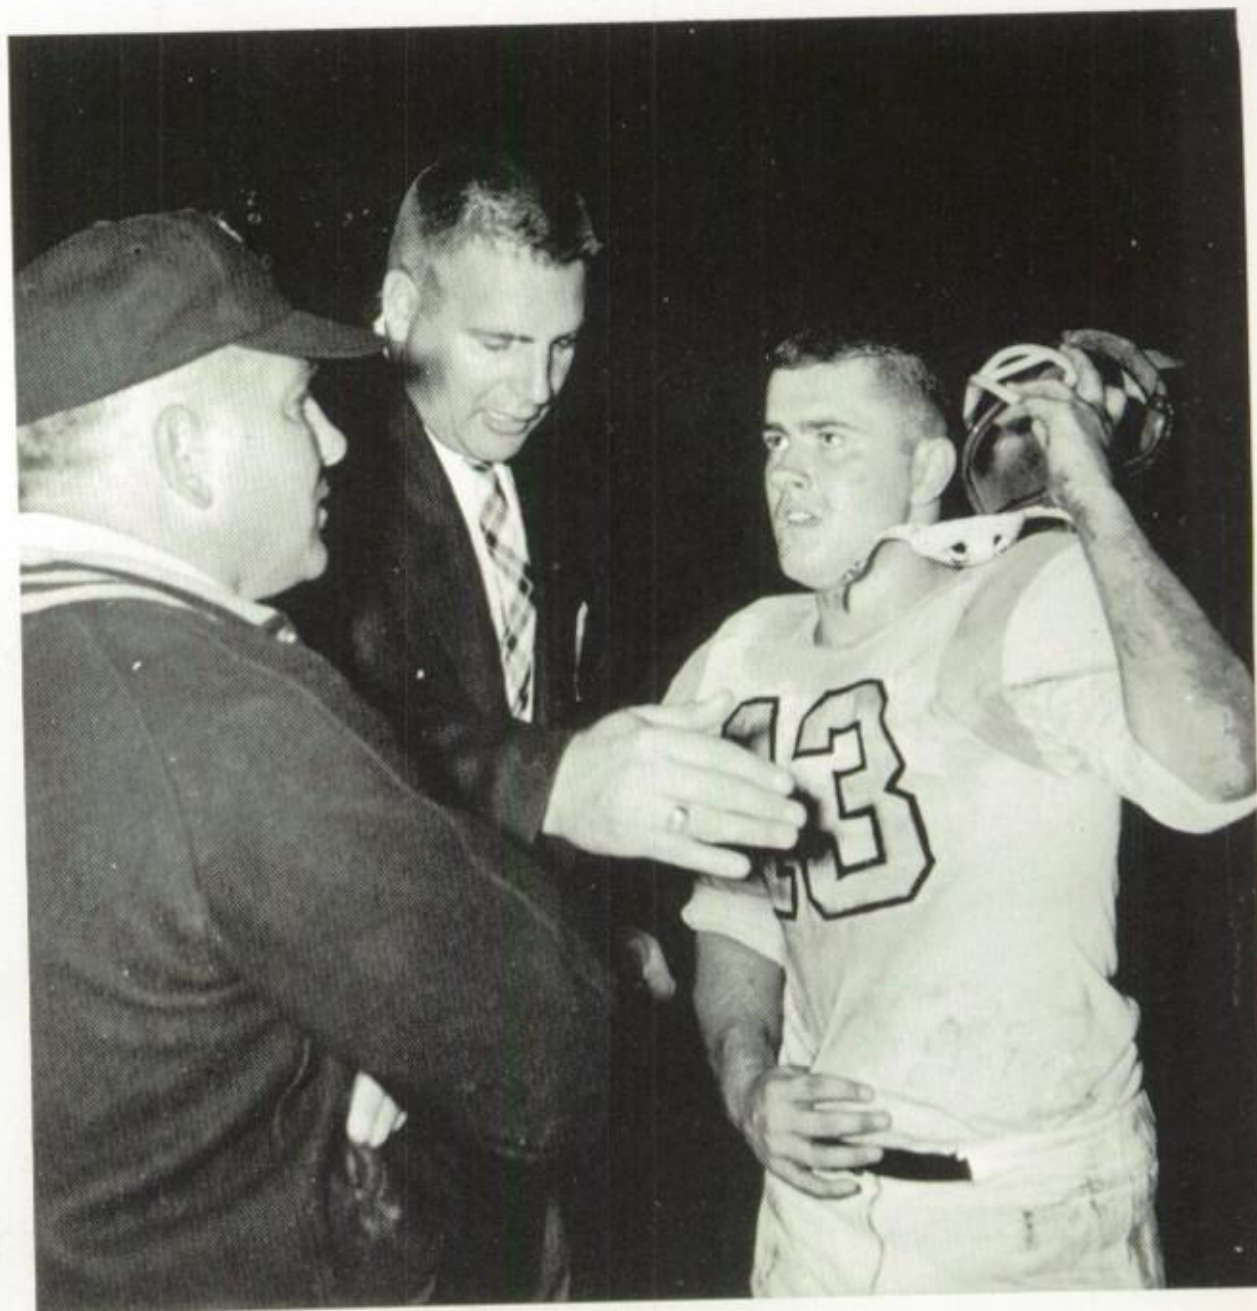

St. Joe ran up its biggest score of the season against a stunned Washington Clay team. Scoring almost at will, the regulars were not pressed into service after the middle of the third quarter, and reserves finished the game which ended to the tune of 33-14.

Victory number five came on the team's longest trip of the season. Coming up against Central Catholic of Lafayette, the Indians scored two early touchdowns and then fought off a late first-half rally by C.C. as the score stood at 14-13 at intermission. The second half was dominated by St. Joe; scoring two T.D.'s, they went on to win 27-13.

The season was closed with a chilling victory over the Penn Kingsmen. Scoring first on a long punt return, St. Joe kept the Kingsmen from their goal line and scored a 25-0 victory which brought the record to 6-2-2.

Fourth Quarter Efforts Net Tribe

GUARD Jim Tomaszewski muscles his way around the opposition.

In completing his fourth year at St. Joseph's Coach Dick Hendricks once again finished the year with a winning season. Although the Indians were never really able to put together a long string of wins, they were able to furnish St. Joe partisans with plenty of thrills and excitement throughout the year.

The Indians opened the hardcourt season against the always powerful Central team and fell to the Bears by the score of 77-44.

The tribe next met cross-town rival Washington. In this one, the Indians fought from behind in the fourth quarter on a 13 point outburst by Gus Buysse and won a 65-58 decision.

In the next three games, a disheartening loss to Riley was sandwiched between victories over North Liberty and Niles.

The site of the three following games was Hammond and there the Indians fell twice, to Morton (76-70) and Bishop Noll (67-64), before gaining a victory over Hammond Clark (48-45).

The team then traveled to Elkhart on two successive nights to participate in the Elkhart Holiday Tournament. The first game opponent was Valparaiso, and the Indians gained a hard fought 68-66 victory which sent the Saints into the next evening's championship game against the host team, Elkhart. The lid seemed to be on the basket this night and the Indians fell to the Blazers (69-51).

The next regular season opponent was Bishop Luers of Ft. Wayne. In this game, the tribe again came from behind in the last quarter on the shoulders of Gus Buysse to win 65-63. Adams was the foe the following evening and again the Indians found the lid on the hoop and fell 77-50.

With a win over Andrean High of Gary St. Joe set out on its longest winning streak of the season in which it scored victories over Culver (64-50), Ft. Wayne C.C. (74-62), Concord (62-57), and Washington Clay 68-59.

The Indians again put on their traveling clothes for a trip to the state capital to meet the Irish of Cathedral High. The tribe was not in its finest form in this one and came out on the short end of a 73-64 score.

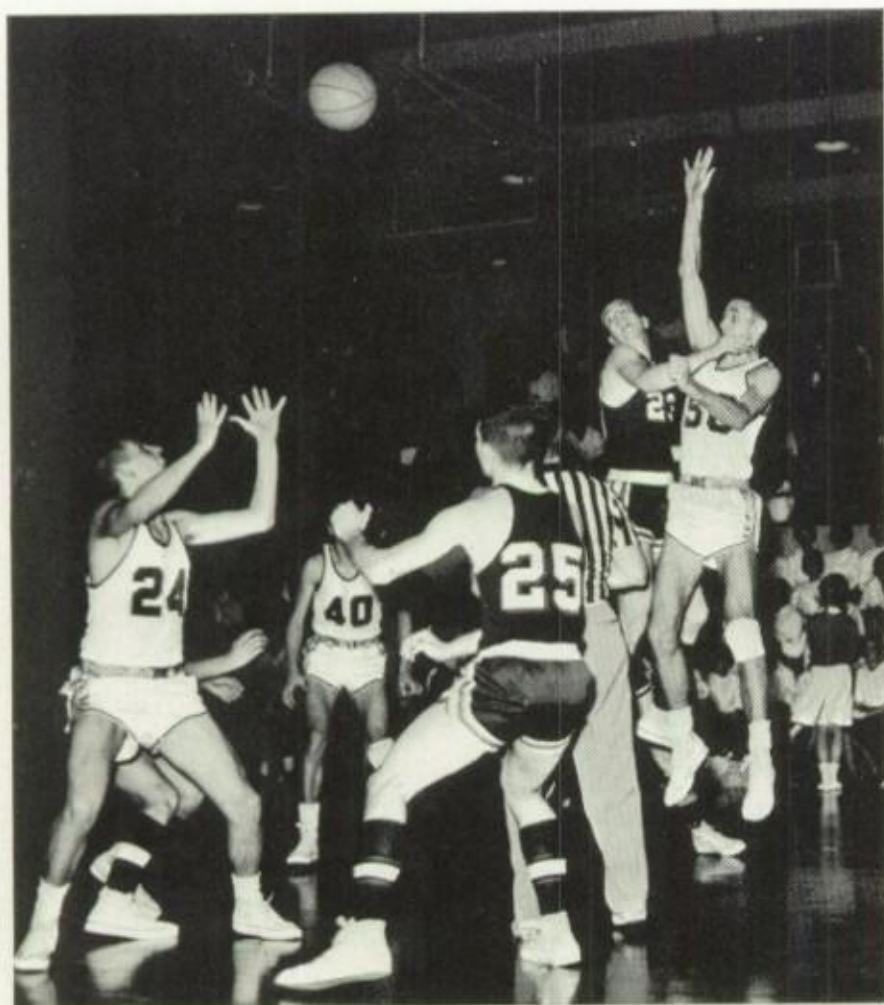

After a disappointing trip, the Indians returned to the friendly surroundings of St. Joe gym to face county champs, Lakeville. The Trojans were not in championship form that night as the Saints rolled past them (65-48).

The regular season was ended in winning fashion with a thrilling 58-57 victory over Penn in which Gus Buysse once again was the hero, scoring the winning basket in the last 4 seconds.

In the Sectionals, the Indians were not favored with an easy draw and faced the still powerful Central Bears on even terms for three quarters before dropping a 53-47 decision and finishing the "61-62" campaign with a fine 13-8 record.

Assemblies Spark School Spirit

In athletic contests, fair-play, teamwork, and sportsmanship must be practiced not only by the players but also by the spectators. In addition to its own efforts, a team must be bolstered by the loyal support of the students, cheering it on, in victory or defeat.

To inspire both the team and the student body to give their all, athletic assemblies are held. The cheers, songs, skits, and so forth only add to the excitement of an approaching game. A common bond of spirit is created between the students and the team and between the students themselves. The rallies also afford a chance to practice the principles of good sportsmanship in proper cheering and respect for the officials, the players, and the other team.

Each class, the Student Senate, and the Athletic Department sponsor assemblies throughout the year. They were spiced with imaginative skits such as the interview with Jose Jimenez, the Riley coach (alias Richard Przybysz), during the Junior Assembly or the fielding of a stimulated opponent's team by the sophomores. Often the assembly is capped by a rousing talk by one of the coaches. The purpose of these programs, however different they may be, is consistent: to unite the student body in a spirit of competition.

Young Trackmen

Short on experience, long on determination, the St. Joe trackmen struggled through the bleakest season in many years, losing all their meets. Going up against some of the strongest teams in the area, the Indians fought with undying spirit.

The cindermen opened their season against a very powerful Central team and almost eked out a victory before falling by $\frac{1}{3}$ of a point, ($54\frac{2}{3}$ — $54\frac{1}{3}$). This heartbreaking defeat was followed by one to Elkhart ($81\frac{2}{3}$ — $27\frac{1}{3}$), and one to Goshen ($61\frac{2}{3}$ — $47\frac{1}{3}$). St. Joe next participated in a triangular meet with Washington Clay and Nappanee. The Indians took second place behind the Clay team. In the final two meets of the season, the team was beaten by New Carlisle ($63\frac{1}{3}$ — $45\frac{2}{3}$), and Washington ($65\frac{1}{3}$ — $42\frac{2}{3}$).

Although inexperience was the deciding factor during this season, the return of many lettermen gives hint of success for the coming season.

Among coaches and players, as St. Joe's 1961 baseball season approached, there was at least some cause for optimism. Several lettermen were back, anchored by two first-class pitchers and a steady, workmenlike catcher. Things didn't jell, however, and soon the team was at the bottom of a depressing 0-6 record.

Things could only look up, it seemed. The Indians' first victory was at the expense of Adams, but it didn't herald any complete revival. The remainder of the regular season was touch-and-go with two more victories sandwiched between a double number of defeats.

Then came the City Tournament and the fairy tale ending for a miserable season record of 3 and 12. Mishawaka was eliminated 2-1 in the first round. Adams, St. Joe's patsy all season, bowed out 7-4 in a night game. The next evening, the Indians built up a surprising lead in the early stages of the championship round with Central, fought off a late surge by the Bears, and took the game 9-8. Astounding as it sounds, St. Joe won the city title — Its very first!

"NOW SON, I know you had the glove on the man, but your foot wasn't on the bag."

Trying Seasons = Dividends

Determination proved to be the key word as the tennis team emerged from one of its most successful seasons. Led by four returning lettermen, the Indians posted a 5-8 record for the season. After falling 1-6 to a powerful Niles team in the opener, St. Joe picked up two wins against Dowagiac and Penn, 6-1 and 5-2. Plymouth then sent the Indians to their second defeat, 2-5. Coach Jim Fuelle's squad rebounded with a 6-1 victory over Howe Military, and then dropped return matches to Penn, 3-4, and Plymouth, 1-6. Howe Military, falling for the second time, provided the Indians with their fourth victory in a 6-1 match.

Swinging toward the season's end, the netmen's record slipped to 4 and 6 with losses to Goshen, 0-7 and 2-5. Culver Military handed St. Joe a 1-9 defeat before the Indians came up with victory number five over the Dowagiac team, 6-1. Closing out the season, Niles High smashed past the squad, coming out with a 1-6 triumph.

Once varsity basketball had shifted into high gear, St. Joseph's intramural dribblers swung in behind. Two dozen teams, evenly distributed among seniors and juniors, and supervised by Mr. Gene Knutson, vied for top spot in a double elimination tournament. A player must really love the game in order to participate in our program because he must roll out of bed early. After a fiercely contested series of games, the senior and junior divisional champs faced off for all the marbles.

Since wrestling is no longer a varsity sport, enthusiasts of this ancient test of skill and strength flexed their muscles and practiced their dexterity in the intramural wrestling program. Preliminaries were run in a manner similar to basketball. However, the two participating classes, the seniors and juniors, were not separate, but combined into five weight divisions. The matches, conducted concurrently with the basketball games, provided an interesting diversion for the bleary-eyed early morning spectators found in the gym on days of competition.

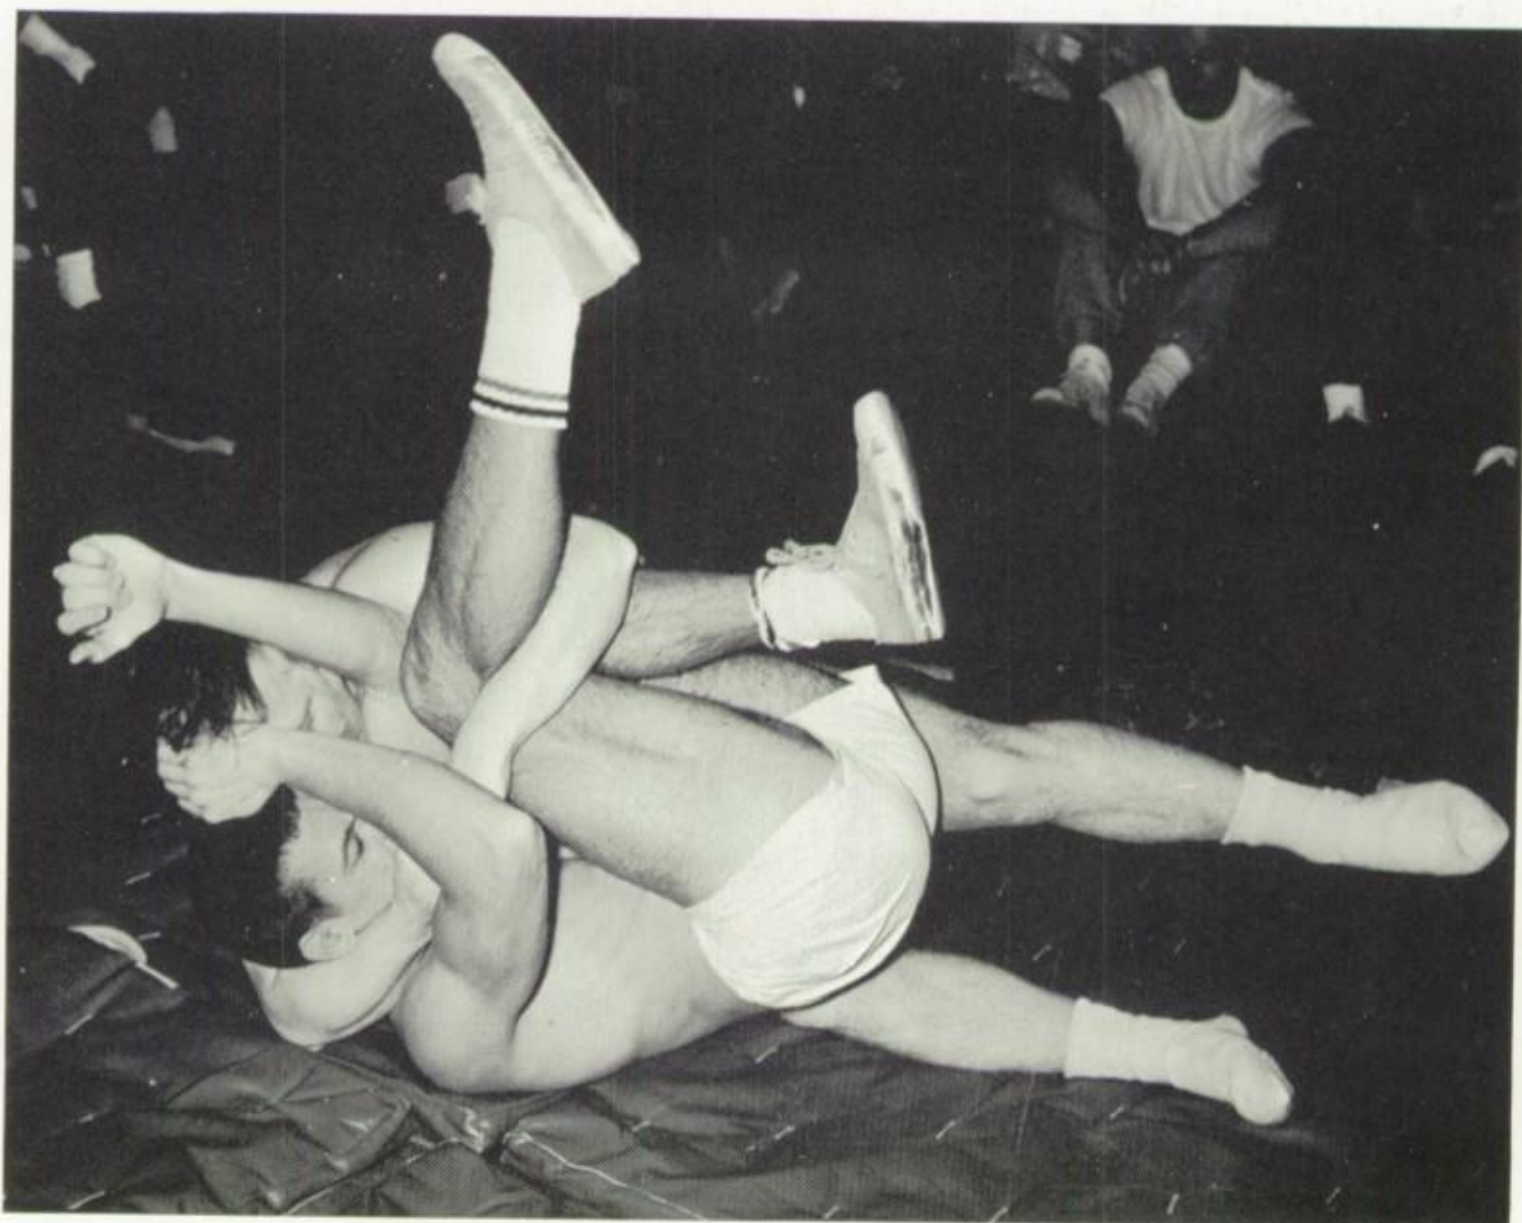

Again this year, as it has in the past, the intramural program has provided an outlet for the athletic ability of the non-varsity competitors, fulfilling its basic purpose.

The Monogram Club is an exclusive club of men of distinction. They are marked by the coveted "J" which points them out as outstanding varsity players on track and turf, field and floor. Proudly displayed, it is a symbol not only of their athletic ability but also of the hard work and sacrifice that was necessary to achieve such recognition. It is an honor for a job well done in the struggle to keep St. Joseph's prominent in sports competition.

The Monogram Club, by its program, attempts to promote further recognition of athletic excellence. It seeks to unite the varsity athletes into a useful influence in the school. They not only give service to the school by ushering at games, but also promote school spirit by sponsoring assemblies and dances.

This year the Monogram Club functioned under the able leadership of its president, Tom Szajko. Tom Wargo served as vice-president. The secretary was Mike Earley; the treasurer, Bill Remmo; and the sergeant-at-arms, Bob Samora. The club was monitored by Mr. Moore and Brothers James Bluma, C.S.C.

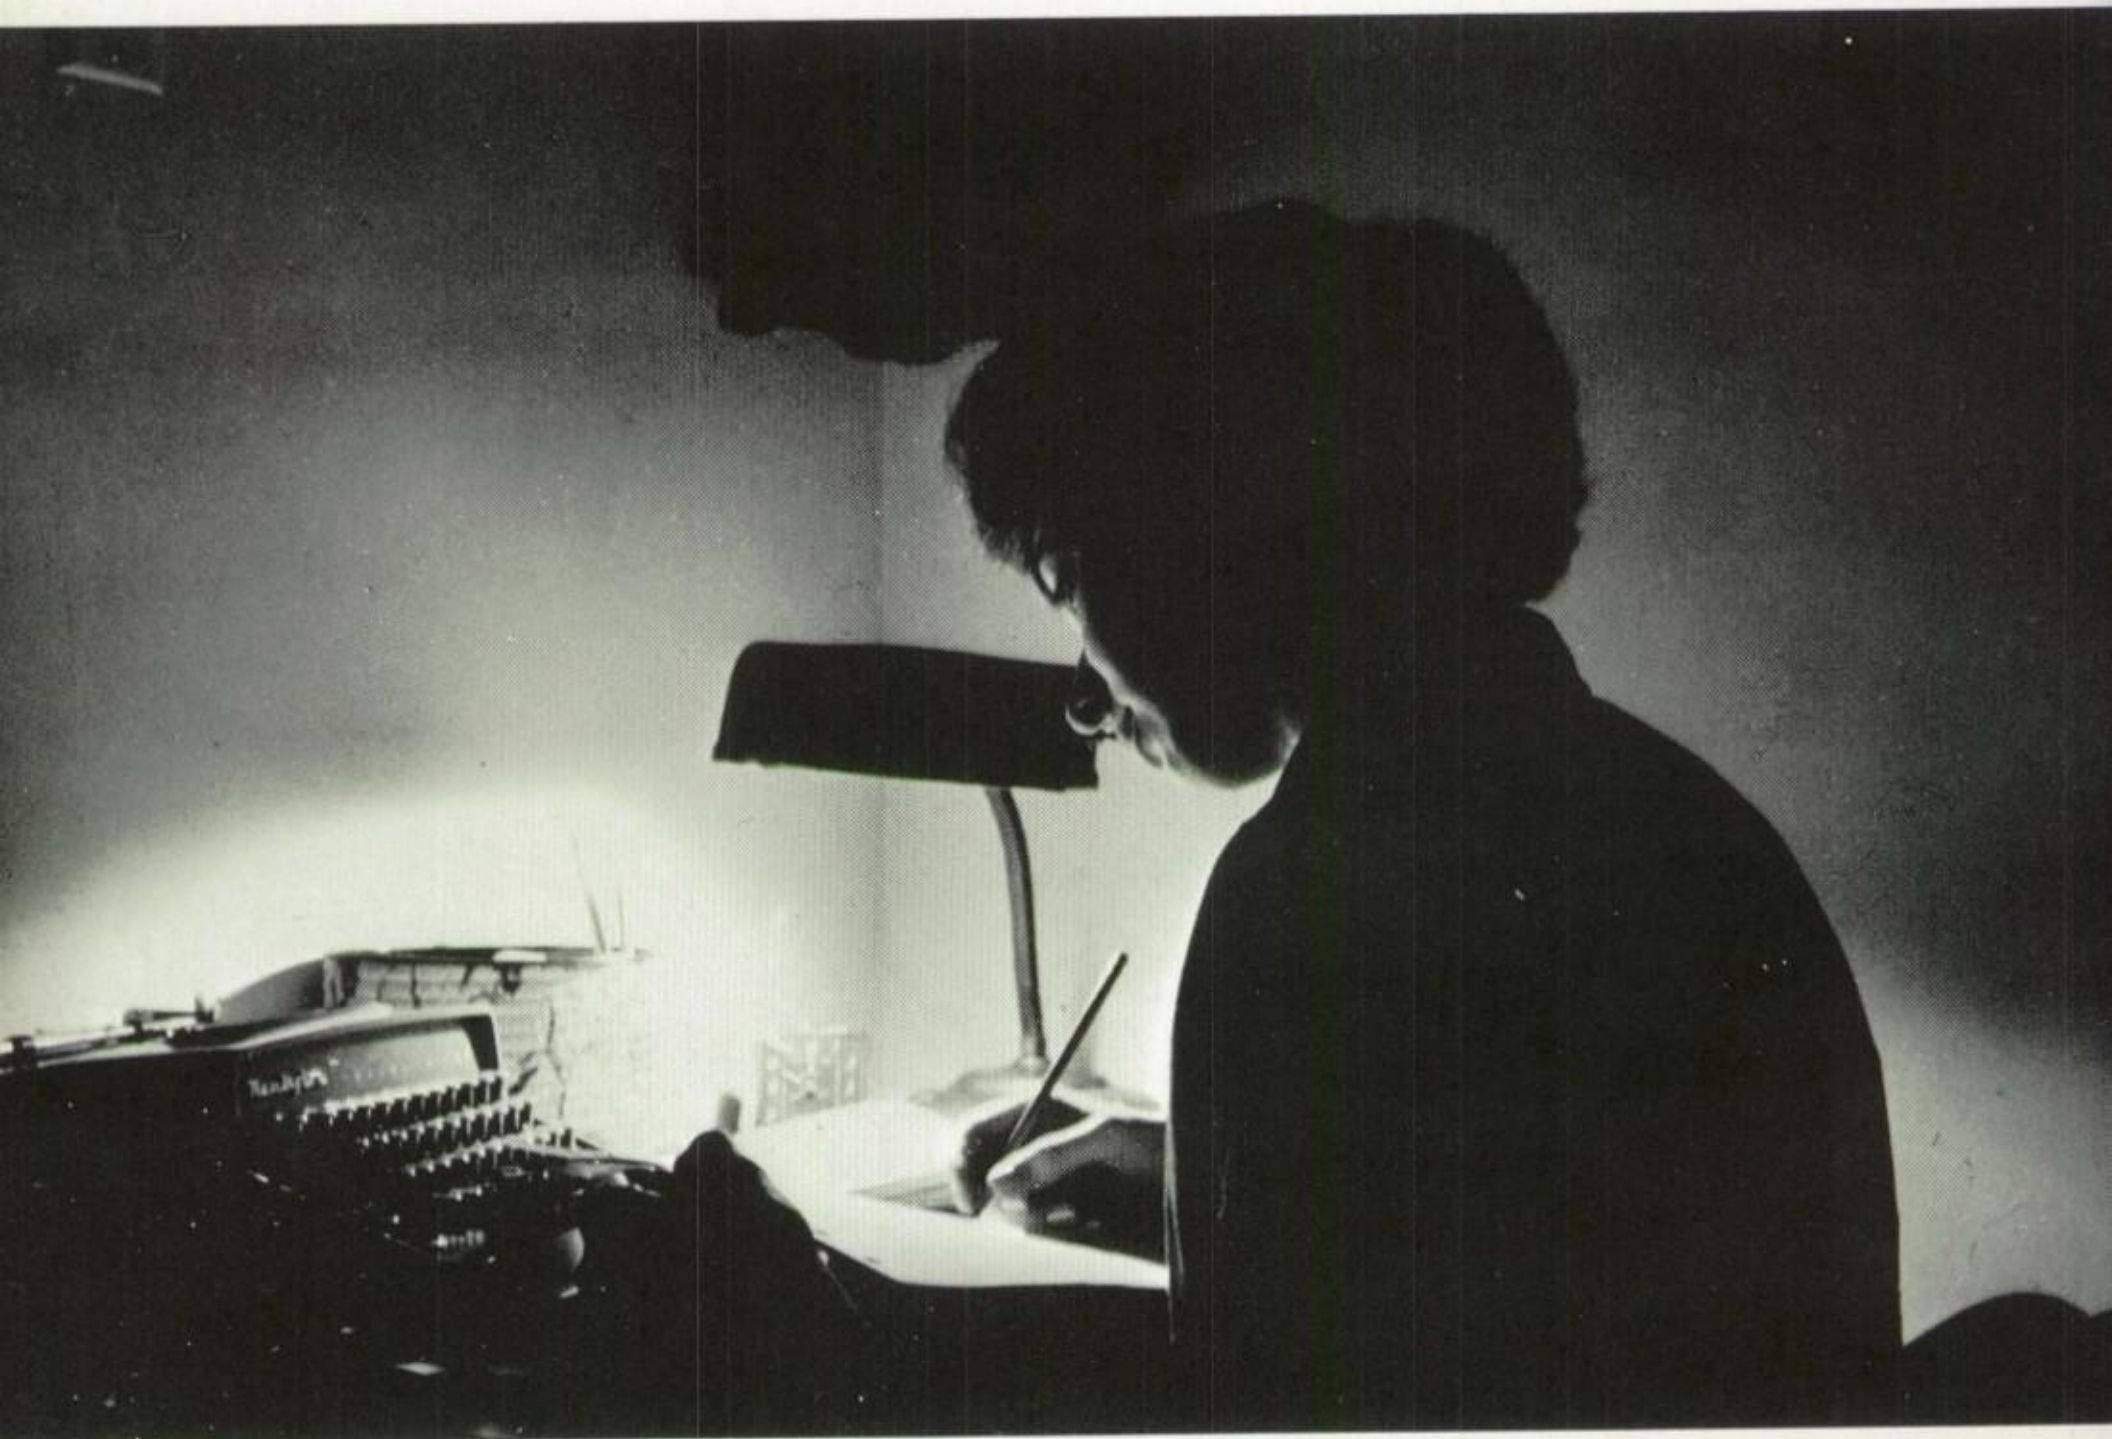

ACCEPTING THE KIWANIS AWARD, Tom Wargo is congratulated by Mr. Christman, the Kiwanis representative.

CLASSES

The backbone of the school is its student body, and St. Joseph's 1645 students give unlimited support. They strive to become the senior citizens of the future, this goal remaining as the governing factor in their associations with the school, its faculty, and the community.

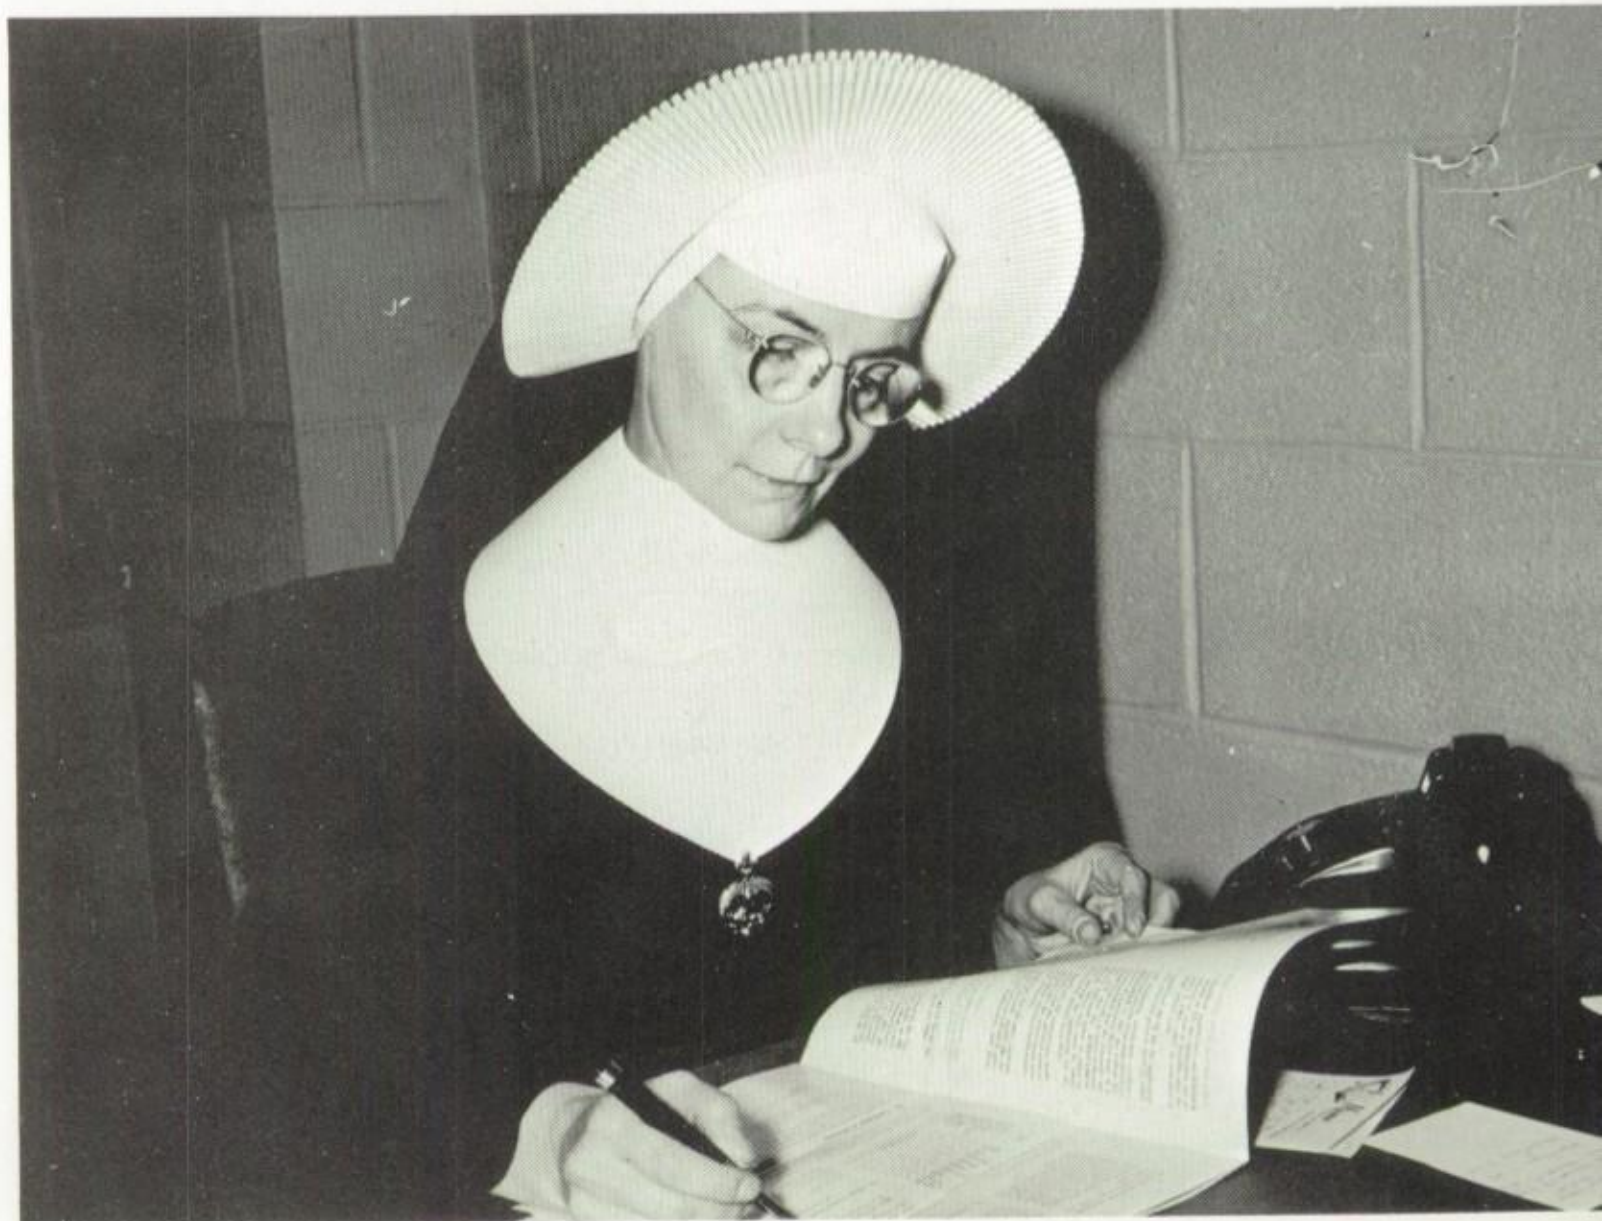

Activities that fill the school year with memorable times . . . a curriculum designed to provide both spiritual and material benefits for the student in future years . . . Responsible for the things that the average student never notices is the administration of St. Joseph's High School. A closer inspection of the administrative duties of the school reveals many hours of hard work spent co-ordinating class schedules, arranging for tests to be given to the students, and undertaking a volume of paper work that comes with each graduating class. All these tasks, and yet the school still functions smoothly.

Unity is closely followed by efficiency, and at St. Joseph's, co-ordination of the two departments is directed by Superintendent Father John Vrabely. Procedure in the Boys' and Girls' Departments requires the efforts of Brother Reginald Justak, C.S.C. and Sister Mary of Good Counsel, C.S.C. With this arrangement, the administration sets school policy. With their hard work, before, during, and after school, comes the efficiency that makes our high school "active."

SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT, Father John Vrabely.

Senior Ingenuity Brings Recognition to School

The word senior is almost synonymous with the word leader. Whether in scholarship, extra-curricular activities, school projects, or innovations, the Senior Class has taken the initiative.

In addition to ordinary class work, which is heavy enough, the seniors have subjected themselves to a battery of college preparatory tests. Their efforts have brought personal recognition and honor to the school.

Starting with the first football assembly, senior-sponsored activities dominated the social scene. The "Fall Mixer," the "Mad Hatter" dance, and the annual Mardi Gras provided fun and relaxation for the students. Senior ingenuity was responsible for the float and decorations for the Homecoming. Intermittently, there were Coke parties and, finally, the long-anticipated Senior Ball — all directed by seniors.

On occasion, seniors had an opportunity to break new ground and set new precedents. There was, for example, participation in the "Second Annual Leadership Day."

Having exhibited more than ordinary talent for leadership, service, and spirit, the Senior Class was ready to accept even greater responsibilities.

Juniors Covet Top Billing

Denis Springer, treasurer; Kathy Mooney, secretary; Mike Donaldson, secretary.

In 1959 this year's juniors entered St. Joseph's as freshmen. The seniors then seemed aged and dignified, worthy of imitation. Now the Freshman Class of '59 has succeeded to the privileged and responsible place of juniors.

The junior year meant a willingness to accept the responsibilities of an upperclassman. Having benefited from the first two years at St. Joseph's, the junior was ready to put his talents and knowledge to good use. Multiple opportunities for service were afforded any willing junior. Projects such as the prom, mixers, and assemblies offered chances to exercise a capacity for leadership.

Juniors hastily responded to the challenges of new experiences and harder work, both in academic and extra-curricular activities. Thus, they adapted to a new life and prepared for the day when they would be seniors.

JUNIOR CLASS MODERATORS, Brother Donald Burkhard, C.S.C., and Sister M. Francis Loyola, C.S.C., enjoy choosing reading material for the students placed under their guidance.

STUDENT HERB HERENDEEN AND INSTRUCTOR BROTHER ROSAIRE seem to have a difference of opinion as to the simplicity of an equation.

Growing Maturity and Privileges

president; Alan Van Huffel, president; Christine Phillon, vice-president; Paul Gruesser, secretary; Gail Horvath, treasurer.

Someone, trying to state a truth succinctly, has said that a Freshman doesn't know anything and knows that he doesn't know anything. A sophomore, on the other hand, doesn't know anything either, but he thinks he does. Perhaps we are being "sophomorphish" in presuming that there is an element of truth in the opening statements. Having a year's experience and sometimes judging wrongly or too hastily, sophomores spread their wings and try to soar upward into the rarified air supposedly reserved for juniors and seniors.

Sometimes there are crashes, but as the year progresses so does the Sophomore's ability to compose himself. Upon completion of this composition process, the "Soph" finds himself faced with new and varied responsibilities, not the least of which are class sponsored assemblies and dances, and, of course, a driver's license for some. He even finds that with these responsibilities comes some privileges! Dance committees are allowed to cut classes and a driver's license gives unprecedented social freedom. So, flushed with his excellence and humbled with obvious inadequacies, the Sophomore begins his metamorphosis into an upperclassman.

"CHEERLEADERS"
JIM TUBBS, Pat

for a Sophomore Assembly.

New Friends, Faces, and School

Cynthia Rousseve, president; Marilyn Maier, secretary; Kathy Gallagher, treasurer.

The step from grade school to highschool is a broad one indeed. In highschool the wheels of Christian training turn a little faster; and, if a Freshman is to meet the pace and enjoy a degree of success, he must quickly develop a serious attitude. The maturity, challenge, and opportunity he meets are greater.

In a sense the Freshman is on his own. There is still close teacher supervision, but the newcomer to St. Joseph's is made to walk alone, to make more of his own decisions, to do more work on his own.

St. Joseph's has a special mold in which it wishes to shape its students. The pressure is particularly hard on the beginner. The Blue Book must become a bible of behavior. He must learn the code, its meaning, and the school song. Above all, he must cultivate a sense of loyalty. At the end of one year a student should already bear the distinguishing St. Joseph's mark.
